

Emotion Wheel

Feelings are emotions you can usually name in one word, like sad, worried, or angry. They often come along with sensations in your body, like a pit in your stomach or shaky hands.

You can use this emotion wheel to figure out which emotion you're feeling.

- Pleasant emotions are on the top half of the circle, and unpleasant emotions are on the bottom
- Low-intensity emotions are on the inside of the circle, and high-intensity emotions are on the outside
- Body feelings are listed outside of the circle

Are you feeling a pleasant or unpleasant emotion? Intense or not intense? How does your body feel?
